...beside the Sacre Coeur; but it wasn't like it used to be. He took canapés from the waitress's tray and looked at her as he had once looked at me. The exhibition at the gallery was of botanical plants painted in green and indigo gauche and were two meters high reaching to the ceiling. Pale green cacti with tuberculation and flat seeds, longing for flowering. I wore an ankle length dress made of black bubble wrap. It showed my figure.
